Synopsis: Twenty-something sisters Kate and Lisa are gorgeous, fun loving and ready for the holiday of a lifetime in Mexico. When the opportunity to go cage diving to view Great White sharks presents itself, thrill-seeking Kate jumps at the chance while Lisa takes some convincing. After some not so gentle persuading, Lisa finally agrees and the girls soon find themselves two hours off the coast of Huatulco and about to come face to face with nature's fiercest predator. But what should have been the trip to end all trips soon becomes a living nightmare when the shark cage breaks free from their boat, sinks and they find themselves trapped at the bottom of the ocean. With less than an hour of oxygen left in their tanks, they must somehow work out how to get back to the boat above them through 47 meters of shark-infested waters.

Angelica

Cast: Jena Malone, Janet McTeer, Ed Stoppard, Tovah Feldshuh,
Eliza Holland
Genre: Drama
Director: Mitchell Lichtenstein
Status: Completed

Synopsis: In Victorian England, innocent shopgirl Constance falls in love with Dr. Joseph Barton, a medical researcher. They soon marry, but their intense passion is cut short. After the life-threatening birth of daughter Angelica, puritanical doctors order abstinence, condemning Constance for lascivious appetites. Sexual repression opens a rift between the young couple. Frustration leads to obsession and Constance becomes more and more protective of Angelica. Joseph's secrets fuel the growing conflicts. Then, late at night, the household begins to be disrupted by what appears to be a paranormal predator. The eerie nocturnal visits multiply, evermore menacing and vividly evoking Constance's deepest fears. With the help of staunch maid Nora, Constance reaches out to a spiritualist to cleanse the home of its terrors. But the arrival of charismatic Anne Montague brings even more complexities to the deteriorating Barton household. Constance places her deepest trust in Anne, and, together, they fight against a force that may be more sinisterly human than supernatural.

Anti-Social

Cast: Gregg Sulkin, Meghan Markle, Josh Myers, Christian Berkel
Genre: Crime
Director: Reg Traviss
Status: Completed

Synopsis: Two brothers, Central London; Dee is a street-artist, he considers himself an Anarchist and together with his best mate Jason embarks on a roller-coaster, politicised stencil-campaign across the city - having a wild time whilst sticking two fingers up at the establishment. Older brother Marcus is a smash-and-grab robber who, along with his gang, launches a crime-wave upon London's exclusive designer jewellers - brazenly raiding the West End on high-power motorbikes armed with sledgehammers like a band of modern day outlaws. For both Dee and Marcus, being Anti-Social is a way of life! As Dee challenges the system his graffiti unintentionally strikes a chord with the city's art-elite and he is gradually seconded into the gallery world and beyond - his continued illegal street-art actions only further cementing his newly found appraisal within London's trendy art-circles. Meanwhile, Marcus' criminal daredevilry begins to afford him credibility within the capital's organised crime-rings - he becomes a notable underworld face and his gangland aspirations suddenly escalate to greater, more dangerous heights. After moving into a city apartment with his Californian fashion-model girlfriend, Kirsten, Dee's career beckons abroad under the patronage of an international art-dealer - he is to relocate to Berlin. As Dee and Kirsten prepare to leave for an exciting start together Marcus' world violently implodes at the crux of a savage gang-war! Dee, subsequently cross-haired by the closing ranks of the Law and the Lawless, is forced to side-step into the underworld of Armed-Robbery due to his allegiance and risk everything he has become.

Bolshoi Babylon

Cast: Anastasia Meskova, Ludmilla Semenyaka, Joy Womacks, Sergei Filin, Nikolai Tsiskaridze, Boris Akimov

Genre: Documentary

Director: Nick Read

Status: Pre-Production

Synopsis: The Bolshoi. Symbol of Russia, a national treasure - mystical and intriguing. Recently, however, the theatre has been in the headlines for all the wrong reasons: intrigue, personal attacks and management changes have created lurid headlines. Now, for the first time, the theatre directors are allowing a film crew access backstage. They see the coming months as a new chapter, and are ready to allow the 2013 -14 season to be recorded as a unique cinematic experience. From the two-time Academy Award-winning Producer of MAN ON WIRE and SEARCHING FOR SUGARMAN, BOLSHOI BABYLON will give a voice to artistes and company members who are not usually in the limelight in irreverent and candid terms. Combining epic themes with intimate portraits, historical dramas will be counterpointed with the untold personal stories of agony and ecstasy that lie behind every acclaimed performance. With unparalleled behind the scenes access, the film will pay tribute to the dancers' extraordinary artistic and athletic talents, their abiding fear of injury and the ruthless ambition needed to survive in the world's most famous ballet company.

Breaking The Bank

Cast: Kelsey Grammer, Tasmin Greig, John Michael Higgins
Genre: Comedy
Director: Vadim Jean
Status: Completed

Synopsis: Charles Bunbury (GRAMMER) is the bumbling, affable chairman of Tuftons, a historic bank based in London. Chairman more in name than in practice, Bunbury married into the position and spends most of his time on the golf course. But when a rogue trader leaves Tuftons skating on thin ice, Charles must transform himself from a labrador of Liverpool Street into a wolf of Wall Street to save the company from rival American and Japanese banks. In a risky move, he ends up breaking the bank, losing both his wife and her family fortune in the process. At rock bottom, Charles's only hope of saving the bank and winning his wife back is a homeless, self-taught financial wizard and his estranged, anti-capitalist daughter. It's not much of a team, and they don't have much of a plan, so it's probably just as well that Charles doesn't understand how shorting and hedging might win him the day.

Synopsis: Of the many mysteries swirling around Cuba, there's one that has captured the imagination of cubaphiles, auto-enthusiasts, and dreamers: What happened to Ernest Hemingway's car? Exactly fifty years after the Nobel-prize-winning author departed Cuba - his home for 22 years - his long-lost 1955 Chrysler New Yorker convertible has finally been found, derelict and near to ruin. Cuba's vast repository of classic American automobiles is synonymous with the surreal and sensual nation, and Hemingway's much sought-after vehicle is potentially the most valuable and important of them all. The story is a fascinating insight into contemporary Cuba - an irresistible yet much-misunderstood Communist island of eccentricity, eroticism, and enigma, in which Hemingway is considered a national treasure and baseball is the national sport - serving alongside the beloved Detroit classics - from creaky Cadillac taxis to Chevrolet Impalas with fins sharp enough to draw blood - as ambassadors of an abiding affection that still binds the two nations together.

Synopsis: Josh, a laid-back, imaginative and overly romantic young man, works as a tour guide and storyteller on a 19th Century sailing ship, The Phoenix. He starts to believe that the ship is somehow communicating with him and has visions of a beautiful young woman, Emily Carson, whose family once owned the ship. One day he sees a woman fall from a Viaduct into the river below and risks his own life to save her from drowning. After the rescue Josh visits the woman, Alex, in hospital. She has no idea how she fell in the water but is certain she was never on a viaduct. Josh believes the ghostly woman he saw fall was in fact Emily, who committed suicide in 1850. He begins to obsessively research Emily's past, piecing together her life, bit by bit. He and Alex start dating but Josh is increasingly torn between her and the visions of Emily, who is becoming ever more alluring and dangerous. Josh discovers she is cursed to look for the body of her true love, a young Lieutenant who died in mysterious circumstances during a voyage home from India. Believing Josh to be her Lieutenant, Emily will not let any woman come between her and her beloved. Having killed off Louise, Josh's boss, she ultimately possesses Alex in order to have him. Josh realises that to save not only Alex but himself too, he must unravel the dark history of The Phoenix and free Emily from her mental torment and the secrets that the ship holds to her past.

Synopsis: In the tradition of 'Frost/Nixon' and 'Goodnight, and Good Luck,' THE EICHMANN SHOW is an intense, absorbing and unique take on a singular and extraordinary moment in television and political history. April 11, 1961: In a baking hot studio gallery in Jerusalem, TV director Leo Hurwitz has his eyes fixed on the clock. The seconds are counting down to the first ever live TV broadcast of an event that will reach hundreds of millions of people in 37 countries around the world. It is the trial of Adolf Eichmann - the architect of the Final Solution, the man who organized the mass deportation and extermination of 6 million Jews. THE EICHMANN SHOW is the behind-the-scenes drama of how a blacklisted TV director (Anthony LaPaglia) and ground-breaking producer (Martin Freeman) overcame enormous obstacles as they set out to capture the testimony of one of the WW2's most notorious Nazis. As he is confronted with witnesses to his appalling crimes, Eichmann remains emotionless. And as the trial progresses, while the director and producer become increasingly determined to decipher whether Eichmann has even a shred of remorse lurking inside, they ultimately reveal for the first time the true horrors of the Holocaust to the world. The film will use a unique production technique, that will greatly intensify the power of the story. By perfectly recreating the courtroom where the trial was filmed in 1961, and by finding a host of doubles for the characters in the trial - the production will be able to integrate the actual footage of the trial seamlessly into the story - so that the impression will be that we are present at the trial itself - and able to bear witness again to the damning truth it reveals.

Electricity

Cast: Lenora Crichlow, Paul Anderson, Christian Cooke, Agyness Deyn
Genre: Drama
Director: Bryn Higgins
Status: Completed

Synopsis: ELECTRICITY is an astonishing journey seen through the eyes of a young woman whose epilepsy brings extraordinary hallucinations as she searches for her lost brother. Lily O'Connor (Deyn) – brash, sexy, witty – lives on the Northeast coast away from the world and her past. But when her mother dies, the past draws Lily back in. When she discovers that her younger brother Mikey (Cooke), the only one who looked after her when they were kids, disappeared to London years ago, she resolves to try and find him. But the search could kill her. Lily's epilepsy brings vivid visual distortions, strange auras and terrifying visions that we experience through her eyes. ELECTRICITY takes us on a journey that brings Lily to the brink of death before triumph in a beautiful and uplifting story of self-discovery and the human spirit. Based on the novel by Ray Robinson that the Guardian called "a breath-taking assault on the senses", ELECTRICITY combines passionate drama with stunning special effects in a powerfully uplifting love story with a fearless breakthrough performance by AGYNESS DEYN.

Synopsis: FUTURE SHOCK! tells the story of 2000AD, a UK science fiction comics anthology that came to change the face of the industry. First published in 1977 to cash in on the success of STAR WARS, 2000AD proved wildly popular with readers, but quickly forged its own distinct identity light years away from the clear-cut heroes and villains of George Lucas' space operatics. The comic was violent, edgy, anti-authoritarian, blackly funny and above all, idiosyncratically British. Not only did it introduce seminal creators such as Alan Moore and Grant Morrison, but it also had a profound influence on pop culture at large, with such cult cinema hits as ROBOCOP and HARDWARE paying overt homage to it soon after its initial publication. The comprehensive documentary account of how the comic came to be, how it survived for 36 years, and how it continues to be an innovator and game-changer, FUTURE SHOCK! offers an illuminating overview of the magazine's history. It's a warts-and-all look at the various highs and lows, a peek inside the creative process of some of its most notable creators, and a funny, moving and passionate chronicle of how a disparate band of talented eccentrics came together to create something both visionary and extraordinary. Featuring interviews with legendary fan favorites such as Neil Gaiman and Grant Morrison, plus dynamic visual sequences that pay tribute to the groundbreaking artwork published in the comic throughout the years, this is the exhaustive final word on 2000AD. The scrappy upstart that is all too often overlooked amongst the constant waves of Marvel/DC corporate hype, 2000AD is more vital than either of them - independent, cutting edge and still punk after all these years. FUTURE SHOCK! aims to finally give the comic its due.

Synopsis: Joe, a young ticket-collector, is riding the last train out of London on a dark and stormy night along with a meager bunch of passengers. When the train brakes violently and comes to a sudden halt deep in the middle of a forest, it seems they have hit something on the line. But when the driver ventures out to investigate he never returns, leaving the passengers in a state of panic - particularly when Joe sees the driver's mutilated body outside the carriage. Realising there's something dangerous lurking in the forest, Joe tells the passengers to make barricades to secure themselves in the carriage but soon the deadly creature is stalking the besieged train and smashing through their defences, picking them off one-by-one. Joe rallies his 'pack' of passengers to fight back. During a vicious battle they manage to kill the creature, revealing it to be a hideous mutated fusion of human and wild animal - a werewolf. However, celebrations are cut short when they hear more howls coming from the forest.

Genre: Thriller
Director: David Blair
Status: Production

Synopsis: To the outside world looking in, Jack's not well. He's been in and out of secure units all of his young life, had every drug they can throw at him, every treatment they can think of... but nothing can make the dead go away. The dead always find a way through. The Messenger is a story of frustration, guilt, love and betrayal. Unwillingly becoming embroiled in the unfinished business of Mark (a journalist brutally murdered in a local park and his television presenter wife, Sarah, to whom he's desperate to say one last goodbye), Jack finds himself getting closer to Sarah, obsessed with passing on Mark's message. Discovering hidden secrets and lies finally pushes Jack over the edge. But there is hope when his estranged sister, Emma, gets in touch. Jack starts to remember the past they shared together and as the memories come flooding back, he starts to confront the truth about the death of his father.

Metanoia

Cast: John Hannah
Genre: Drama
Director: Robert Mullan
Status: Pre-Production

Synopsis: 1967. It's the summer of love but revolution is in the air. R.D. Laing is young, ambitious and devastatingly charismatic. Young women want to sleep with him, men want to be him. He takes LSD, and thinks others might like it to. Audiences are either spellbound, or outraged to the point of violence. He's not a rock star, he's not a poet - he's a psychiatrist, a cult figure; some say he's a very dangerous man. During the 1960's, lunatic asylums are hell for their patients. There is no cure, no escape and the treatment -powerful drugs, electric shocks to the brain, insulin, and icepick lobotomies- are worse than the illness itself. Laing was a celebrity - crowds flocked to see him in London's Roundhouse and elsewhere. His reading at Ronnie Scott's attracted London's intellectual glitterati. He's regularly interviewed by the BBC and debates his methods with the establishment, represented by the Royal College of Psychiatry. In his experimental household in Kingsley Hall in London's East End, he allows people to be themselves and to explore their own illness. If this entails someone dancing naked on the roof, or remaining silent in his or her own room, then so be it. These people had spent all their lives living someone else's way; now was the time to do it their way.

Miss Julie

Cast: Jessica Chastain, Colin Farrell, Samantha Morton
Genre: Drama
Director: Liv Ullman
Status: Completed

Synopsis: A country estate in Ireland in the 1880s. Over the course of one midsummer night, in an atmosphere of wild revelry and loosened social constraints, Miss Julie and John, her father's valet, dance and drink, charm and manipulate each other. She, all hauteur longing for abasement; he, polished but coarse - both united in mutual loathing and attraction. By turns seductive and bullying, savage and tender, their intimacy leads to desperate plans and a vision of a life together... Unsure if the morning brings hope or hopelessness, Julie and John find their escape in a final act as sublime and horrific as anything in Greek tragedy. MISS JULIE depicts a fierce battle between a man and a woman, a struggle for power and dominance enacted through a cruel and compulsive game of seduction and repulsion.

Pulp

Genre: Documentary
Director: Florian Habicht
Status: Completed

Synopsis: Britpop wunderkinds PULP found fame on the world stage in the 1990's with anthems including 'Common People' and 'Disco 2000'. 25 years (and 10 million album sales) later, they return to Sheffield for their last UK concert. Giving a career best performance exclusive to the film, the band share their thoughts on fame, love, mortality - & car maintenance. Director Florian Habicht (Love Story) weaves together the band's personal offerings with dream-like specially-staged tableaux featuring ordinary people recruited on the streets of Sheffield. PULP is a music-film like no other - by turns funny, moving, life-affirming & (occasionally) bewildering.

A Queer Country

Genre: Jewish
Director: Lisa Morgenthau
Status: Post-Production

Synopsis: Israel is a haven for the Jewish people and, increasingly, a haven for the gay community. It's governed by orthodox civil law and yet it hosts the world's biggest Gay pride. The Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions movement say this is a cynical marketing ploy - not a political awakening. Investigating these claims we explore an extraordinary view into Israel's Bohemian side - and the social revolution that's challenging the foundations of the Jewish state. Harriet and Lisa - one gay and Jewish, and one neither - began their journey in Israel last year. They integrated themselves into the LGBT community in Tel Aviv and explored the differences with life there - where not long ago the Pride march had to be held indoors due to violence from the ultra orthodox community. Their experience led them to some very intimate and established relationships within the LGBT community in Israel. The documentary is a fascinating journey into a country which is continually diverse and complex.

Synopsis: Jack, a handsome young Englishman, is stranded in rural France after his bags are stolen. As he attempts to hitchhike towards Calais, he struggles to communicate with the people he encounters. Warned of the 'road killer', a serial killer that dumps his victims on the roadside, Jack begins fearing the surrounding dangers. Feeling more vulnerable and foreign than ever, he never expected a place so close to home could feel so unknown to him. Jack's luck changes for the better however when he meets a beautiful French girl called Véronique. They decide to stick together to keep each other company and over the course of a night spent around a campfire in the woods, an innocent romance begins to blossom between them. They finally catch a ride with Monsieur Grizard, a quirky middle-aged Frenchman, who offers to drive them to Calais, despite it being out of his way. Though the weather soon changes for the worse and he suggests they stay the night at his house, where his English wife will cook them a roast dinner. Jack and Véronique reluctantly agree and find themselves warmly welcomed into the local couple's home. After a tense and peculiar dinner, they discover a ferry strike means they may be stuck with the couple longer than anticipated, and over the course of the evening they find themselves becoming inexplicably entangled in their lives. The bond between Jack and Véronique strengthens as they passionately make love that evening. After all his troubles, Jack feels as if his life finally seems to be making a beautiful and positive change for the better. This feeling is short lived, however, when he wakes the following morning to discover that Véronique has vanished. M. Grizard informs him that she left earlier in the morning and sent her best wishes with his onward journey. He also apologises to Jack for his plans must change, and he can no longer ride him to Calais. Baffled by Véronique's unexpected disappearance, Jack's heightened suspicions over the couple's motives for helping them intensify when he is kidnapped by Delacroix, the local 'road kill collector', a seemingly vicious man that makes Jack realise everyone is a suspect. It becomes clear that the Grizards are holding Véronique captive though their intentions for doing so are mysteriously unclear. Jack finds his only option is to attempt breaking free from the grasps of the vicious local, holding on to the hope that he will be able to find Véronique unscathed, and to escape the Grizard residence and the enigmatic countryside before something terrible unravels wildly out of his control.

Synopsis: Deep beneath the English Channel a small army of well-trained war criminals, led by Laszlo Antonov, have seized control of the Eurostar, taking four hundred hostages at gunpoint. Their plan: to blow up the Channel Tunnel and declare economic war on a government that has its own fair share of secrets to keep. One man stands in their way - SAS operator Tom Buckingham is hiding somewhere inside the train. Alone and injured, he's the only chance the passengers have to get out alive. Among them is the woman he loves, Dr. Delphine Prideux, who is returning to Paris to tell her parents that she's pregnant. Trying to save everything that he holds dear, including his strained relationship, Tom unleashes a whirlwind of retribution and intrigue in his attempt to stop Laszlo and the other war criminals. Based on the best selling novel by Andy McNab, the film hurtles at breakneck speed from the SAS' assault on Laszlo's safe house to Whitehall's corridors of power to the heart of the Channel Tunnel. The film will employ SAS veteran Andy McNab and his vast combat experience and unique perspective on high-stakes crisis resolution to deliver the most intense and authentic SAS action thriller ever seen. With Nick Love at the helm of a movie he was born to direct and compelling star Luke Evans embodying an iconic and universal role, SAS: RED NOTICE has that rare combination of grounded action and deeply human entertainment.

Synopsis: SUFFRAGETTE is a thrilling drama that tracks the story of the foot soldiers of the early feminist movement, women who were forced underground to pursue a dangerous game of cat and mouse with an increasingly brutal State. These women were not primarily from the genteel educated classes, they were working women who had seen peaceful protest achieve nothing. Radicalized and turning to violence as the only route to change, they were willing to lose everything in their fight for equality - their jobs, their homes, their children and their lives. MAUD was one such foot soldier. The story of her fight for dignity is as gripping and visceral as any thriller, it is also heart-breaking and inspirational.

Synopsis: One fateful night, troubled teenager Kelly sneaks into her boyfriend Mark's house to deliver some sobering news: she's pregnant. With the skills she's learnt as a gymnast, Kelly deftly creeps across the garden and clammers up the drainpipes without waking his disapproving parents. But tonight, she's not the only unwelcome visitor: an armed gang breaks in. Mark's father Doug manages a bank and the gang plan on using Doug's help to carry out a daring heist using his captive family as leverage. Their plan quickly unravels when during the ensuing struggle, the gang's leader Shane gets injured and is left on Mark's bed fading in and out of consciousness. Unbeknownst to the intruders, a terrified and vulnerable Kelly is only inches away under the very same bed. From her cramped hiding position, Kelly overhears everything and now knows too much, putting her life in terrible danger if she's ever discovered. But she can't hide forever. As tensions escalate, Shane's psychopath of a brother Callum plans to burn down the house to destroy any DNA evidence. Now Kelly must draw on all her reserves of strength and her skills of dexterity to escape. As the situation spirals out of control, the suburban house becomes a terrifying arena for violence. Faced with no alternative she must turn and fight back.

Synopsis: WAR BOOK takes place over three days as nine civil servants gather in a government building to take part in a policy shaping scenario. They are there to take decisions on Britain's reaction to an international nuclear attack. At first the participants are casual, playing out the scenario against a backdrop of their own petty squabbles and personal ambitions. Only two participants know the truth - that the country is secretly facing a real nuclear threat, and that their theoretical responses may become reality sooner than they can know. As the scenario escalates and the group begins to address the breakdown of civil order, the reality that they are deciding our futures dawns. When personal politics crash irrevocably into the room, each is forced to look closely at what they really believe, and how much their decisions are actually worth.

Synopsis: WAR OF WORDS is an energising, controversial and inspiring feature documentary that lifts the lid on the fast growing UK battle rap scene. The film is an entertaining expose on how the UK has embraced an American art form and made it uniquely British, creating the most exciting youth subculture around today. We explore an exciting subculture of youth in the UK today; their creativity and work ethic, their passion for language and ability to control their own destiny. While the language is often harsh and unflinching, the 'anything goes' philosophy of the battle arena results in one of the most harmonious and creative scenes in youth culture. Part sport, part theatre, battle rap is a unique soapbox for eloquent, deep thinking souls to share their creativity and worldview. The film reveals the history and evolution of this unique subculture of Hip hop: charting it from its origins in playgrounds and parks, through to nightclubs and competitions. From its beginnings as a battle of quick-thinking freestyle wit, through to its current incarnation as a form of well-rehearsed poetry and theatre. Over the past two years, director's Craig Tuohy and Tom Worth have been delving deep into the world of battle rapping, filming the major people involved with the UK Battle rapping scene; the founders, organisers and biggest battlers of the hugely popular UK Don't Flop and Jump Off leagues. The film uncovers behind the scenes footage, clips from some of the best ever battles, and interviews with the top battle rappers from all over the UK including; poet Mark Grist whose battle rap with Blizzard has had over 4.5 million hits on YouTube and how our journey began. Included are interviews and footage from international superstars; Ice T, Chuck D, Scroobius Pip, Wu-Tang Clan, Professor Green and Doc Brown.
